Nilsson, Martin (1940). Greek Popular Religion. New York: Columbia University Press.

Nilsson, Martin (1949). A History of Greek Religion. Oxford: Clarendon Press.

Nock, A.D. (1933). Conversion. Oxford University Press.

Festugiére, A.–J. (1954). Personal Religion among the Greeks. Berkeley: University of California Press.

To note: Third century developments from contact with East, i.e. cults of fortune and fate, Sun and planets as gods, orientalizing mystery religions. Second century, astrology, and mystery religions sometimes as escape from the planetary gods. Tendency to view the sect's god as the only one, or at least the most powerful, others' gods as aspects of one's own, or subordinate to one's own. So Isis cult: purification and lustration, raised to 8th sphere to meet Isis, soul becomes free of influence of stars once free of the stain of sin, ascends to the goddess after death, freed from the body.

BIBLIOGRAPHY

The mention of a book or article in the bibliography can be taken as a recommendation for it. Included are good translations of primary sources, and the most interesting and important secondary sources. Most of the latter are here because they influenced my exposition, but some argue for interesting views with which I disagree. I have restricted myself for the most part to works in English.

- Aaboe, Asgar (1974). "Scientific astronomy in antiquity," in The Place of Astronomy in the Ancient World, ed. F.R. Hodson (Oxford) 21-42.
- Ackrill, J.L. (1981). Aristotle the Philosopher. Oxford University Press.
- _____ (1997). Essays on Plato and Aristotle. Oxford University Press.
- Adkins, A.W.H. (1960). Merit and Responsibility. Oxford. An excellent treatment of Greek ethical thought before the fourth century, working from literary texts. Its conclusions may be somewhat overdrawn, though many critics seem to overreact, and insist on misunderstanding them. For judicious correction, see Lloyd-Jones (1971) and A.A. Long (1970).
